EDEN ON FIRE SELECTED TO COMPETE IN THE WACKEN METAL BATTLE USA 2026

Erie, PA – October 14, 2025 – Female-fronted metal band Eden On Fire has officially been selected to compete in the Wacken Metal Battle USA 2026, a nationwide competition that gives independent bands the chance to perform on the world’s biggest heavy metal stage — Wacken Open Air in Germany.

The Wacken Metal Battle is renowned for discovering and propelling top emerging metal acts onto the international scene. Hundreds of bands across the United States apply each year, but only a select few are chosen to compete in live regional rounds. Winners from each region advance for a chance to represent the U.S. at Wacken Open Air 2026, performing in front of over 85,000 fans and sharing the bill with some of metal’s most legendary names.

“Being selected for the Wacken Battle is an honor beyond words,” says Amy Gould, lead vocalist of Eden On Fire. “Just to be recognized among the nation’s rising metal acts is incredible. We plan to bring everything we’ve got to that stage.” The competition kicks off in February 2026, with details on venues and performance dates to be announced soon.

Eden On Fire has been gaining attention with their debut album Unresolved, praised for its powerhouse vocals, searing guitars, and modern melodic metal sound. The band’s growing reputation and recent media appearances — including interviews with FemMetal, All Music Magazine, and Radioactive Metal — have established them as one of Pennsylvania’s most exciting rising metal acts.
